SPAIN

STUDENT GUIDE

You are about to begin a course designed to enable you to communicate in situations which you are likely to encounter in the cities of Spain. The emphasis of the course is on speaking and understanding Spanish and you will be working extensively with the tapes. You will also learn to read various information signs, such as traffic signs and signs found in railroad terminals.

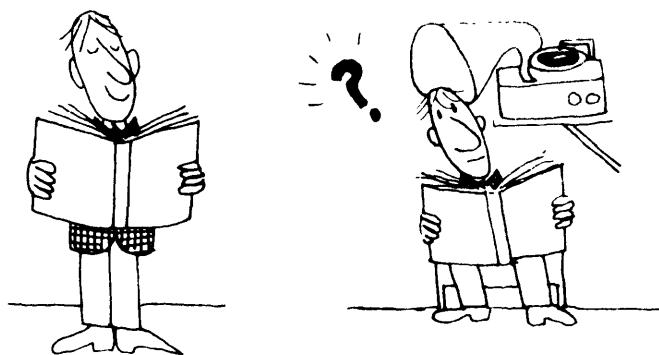

"Different strokes for"

1. We discourage you from trying to read the Spanish without listening to the tape. If you attempt to read first and then listen to the tape, you will quickly discover that what you hear doesn't sound anything like what you see, and you will have wasted valuable time.

STUDY HINTS

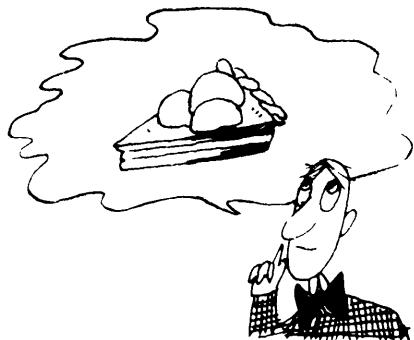

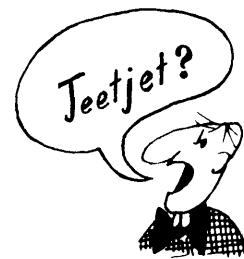

Individual learning styles vary, so we have built a certain amount of flexibility into the materials to accommodate these variations. The recommendations that we make here have been successful for most students. If you have approaches that work better for you, by all means, use them.

"What you see is not what you get!"

STUDENT GUIDE

You will notice that when some words are pronounced by themselves, they will sound different from the way they sound in a sentence. Look at the English sentence "Did you eat yet?" which usually comes out sounding something like "jeetjet?" Spanish is no different, so pay careful attention to the way words combine with each other in sentences.

"pastel con helado"

of what you're saying. Guard against what you're saying. When you begin to think in Spanish, you'll find it much easier to monitor what you're saying. It won't matter that there is no word-for-word correspondence between the Spanish and English, because you won't be thinking in and translating words--you'll be translating thoughts.

2. You should never repeat anything you don't understand. This does not mean that you must be able to translate everything word for word; it simply means that you should be able to attach a meaning to what you hear and repeat. A good technique is to try to form pictures of what you are repeating.

In certain kinds of exercises you will find yourself becoming very good at making the correct responses without being aware

3. You may need to refer to your book the first time you do some exercises, but don't be satisfied with your performance until you can do the exercises in the pauses allowed on the tape without looking at the book. If you cannot keep up with the tape, take it a bit slower; stop the tape and give yourself time to formulate your response; repeat the exercise a couple of times. If you still can't keep up, go on to the next exercise or take a break and then try again.

Slow-w-w-w . . . down late distinctly, and to project your voice as if you were the anchorman broadcasting the six o'clock news.

4. At first it will seem as if you are never going to be able to make some of the sounds you hear. Remember, you are overcoming 20, 30, 40, or more years of speech habit and your muscles will need some retraining. It's almost as though you suddenly had to start writing with your other hand; it can be done, but it will take some practice. Remember to enunciate clearly, to articu-

and that's the way it is . . .

5. You will sometimes find grammar notes and literal translations in the "Notes on the Conversation" immediately following the conversation, and sometimes, as appropriate, with the exercise itself. The notes are important only if they fit your particular learning style and make it easier for you to learn the material. Memorizing grammar rules is not an objective of this course.

you have learned. Don't be afraid to experiment with the words and structures you learn.

6. Lastly, and most importantly, practice speaking Spanish at every opportunity; talk to your instructor, to your classmates, to yourself. Use what

Speak!

STUDENT GUIDE

Play with the language!
Make new sentences--even if you have to use an English word.
Express your thoughts--that's what language is all about.

DESCRIPTION OF COURSE

The Spanish Headstart for Spain program consists of four modules with accompanying tapes. Each of the four modules is divided into units (two to four units per module). Each unit is a complete lesson. The learning activities for each unit are:

1. Conversation
2. Notes on the Conversation
3. Exercises
4. Self-evaluation Quiz

Unit-by-unit objectives for each module are stated at the beginning of the module; the Keys to marked exercises and to the Self-evaluation Quizzes are at the end of the book. A separate booklet contains the Cumulative Glossary (Spanish-English and English-Spanish).

The modules should be studied in sequence. Average completion time for students who have never studied Spanish is 30 to 40 hours.

CONTENT OF MODULES

Module I. GETTING TO KNOW YOU

- Unit 1. Greetings and Introductions
- Unit 2. Have you been here long?
- Unit 3. What does your husband do?

Module II. GETTING AROUND

- Unit 1. At the Train Station
- Unit 2. Is there a gas station near here?
- Unit 3. Could you fix my car?
- Unit 4. Taxi! Taxi!

Module III. SHOPPING

- Unit 1. In a Seafood Market
- Unit 2. In an Open-Air Market
- Unit 3. At a Department Store

Module IV. AT THE RESTAURANT

- Unit 1. At a Cafe Counter
- Unit 2. Dinner in a Restaurant

STUDENT GUIDE

HOW TO STUDY THE COURSE

Select the proper tape by referring to the Tape Index at the end of this Student Guide. Begin with Module I and study each module in sequence. Before you start the tape for each module, read the objectives and the English version of the conversation.

Get on your mark, get set . . .

After practicing the conversation, you might want to check the Notes on the Conversation. In addition to grammatical explanations, the Notes contain cultural and general information related to the subject or to the setting of the conversation. In the English version of the conversation, words required in (SPANISH) but not in English appear in parentheses; words not used in Spanish but needed in [ENGLISH] are in brackets.

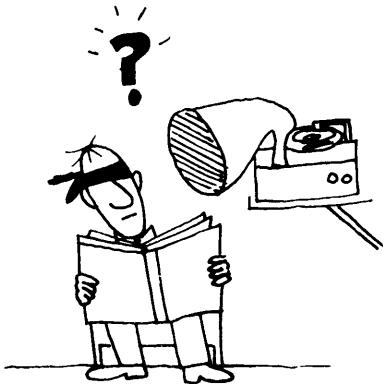

All the instructions are on the tape; do not try to study the course without the tapes. When you are listening and repeating in Spanish, try to imitate the speakers on the tape as closely as possible. If it helps you to look at the Spanish, by all means do so, but remember to trust your ears rather than your eyes. In the exercises in which you are required to respond in Spanish, the correct response will be given on the tape. Responses and cues to the Self-evaluation Quizzes and to Exercises marked with a are also printed in the Keys.

CONVERSATION FOR LISTENING COMPREHENSION

Spanish, like many other languages, has a polite or formal form of address, as well as a familiar or informal form. Although it is impolite to use the familiar form to address someone you meet for the first time, Spaniards tend to switch to the informal form during their conversation, so in this course the emphasis is placed on both formal and informal forms. Near the end of each unit there is an exercise which is a conversation strictly for listening comprehension. These conversations are designed to give you practice in guessing at the meaning of what you hear. They may include material from units you have already studied, or they may include new words.

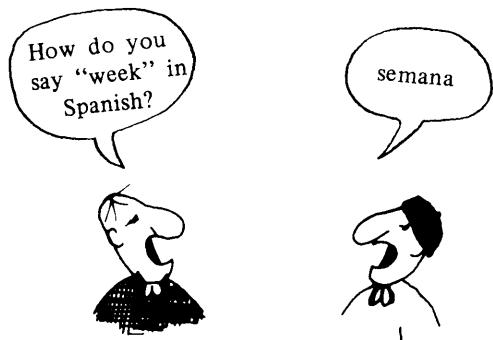

It is important that you try to understand as much as possible without looking at your text. Play the conversation several times if you need to. The first time, you may get only a general idea of what is happening, but each time you play it you will understand more. You will be able to confirm any guesses you have made, and you will find yourself beginning to think in Spanish.

The last step in this exercise is to check your text and any notes on the exercise; then play the conversation again while following your text. The English translation--if you need it--is in the Key.

Keep in mind that the material covered in these conversations is strictly for listening comprehension; any new words or phrases found in these conversations will not be tested.

SELF-EVALUATION QUIZZES

Each unit contains Say in Spanish exercises, which will help you review for the Self-evaluation Quiz (SEQ) at the end of each unit. If you have no trouble with these exercises, you are ready for the SEQ. The SEQ, which tests your achievement of the unit objectives, consists of a series of situations in which you must respond either in Spanish or in English. Depending on the objectives of the unit, you may be called upon to write down numbers (time, prices) or to comprehend limited written material such as road signs and signs found in train stations. The quizzes are on tape, as are the correct responses to items in which you are required to speak. The correct answers for the entire quiz are printed in the Key. If you can respond correctly to all items in the quiz in the time allowed on the tape, you can be confident that you have achieved the objectives of that unit.

STUDENT GUIDE

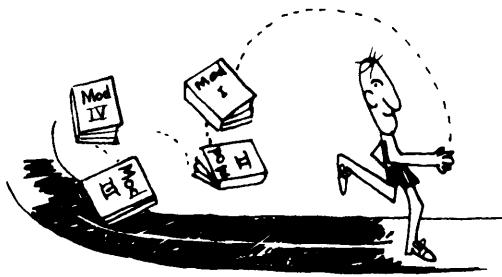

END-OF-MODULE ORAL INTERVIEWS

If you are working on your own and are satisfied with your performance on the SEQs for every unit of a module, you are ready for the next module. If you are working with an instructor, he or she will check your performance on the entire module before you continue. This check will consist of an informal interview during which you will be asked to respond to your instructor by playing a role appropriate to the subject of the module.

END-OF-COURSE TESTS

When you have completed the four modules, you are ready for the End-of-Course Test. This test consists of 50 items in the multiple-choice format. If you have performed satisfactorily on the SEQs and interviews, you will probably find this test fairly easy. Eighty percent (40 correct answers) is the passing score.

WE HOPE YOU ENJOY YOUR STUDY!

NOTES ON THE CONVERSATION

Photo: jpvargas
cc-by-sa-2.0

Buenas tardes. Equivalent to "good afternoon" and/or "good evening." It is used any time after lunch until dusk. Remember that lunch in Spain is any time from one to three in the afternoon.

Este es el señor Hudson y su señora. El, "the," is used when introducing a man with a title. Señor, "Mr." is considered a title. When introducing a woman, la is used before the title señora. For example: la señora Hudson.

Señor, señora and señorita, may be used without names. They are used by servants, and they are equivalent to "sir" and "ma'am."

When a woman is introduced, her full name may be used. Note that Spanish women, officially, keep their maiden names; therefore if a couple have different names this does not necessarily mean that they are not married to each other. Some women, especially in the older generation, still use their husbands' name preceded by de, "of." For example: Señora de Felipe Díaz, or Señora de Díaz.

When talking about a woman or a man, her or his title should be used unless she or he is very young, your own age, belongs to the circle of your friends or co-workers, is a servant of yours, or a well known politician or entertainer. You may talk about: el señor Giménez, la señora Suárez, but when referring to well known people, you say: Julio Iglesias, Nuria Espert, Felipe González.

When introducing yourself, you say your first and last names without any title. When introducing your wife, you say her name and you may add: mi mujer. You may also say: mi esposa as is customary in Latin America. You should never say: mi señora. When speaking to your servants, you refer to your wife as la señora.

Kathrene, Manolo, Pilar. First names are used among friends and in the family. In Spanish schools the students are called by their last names. Often old schoolmates continue calling each other by their last names all their lives.

NOTES ON THE CONVERSATION

Americanos, "Americans." Americanos refers to people from the United States. People from South America are usually referred to as sudamericanos.

&Verdad? Used to form tag questions when an affirmative answer is excepted.

Nos tuteamos, "We say tú to each other." The familiar form tú rather than usted is commonly used in the family, among friends and/or co-workers. For a foreigner, it is advisable to wait until the use of tú is initiated by the Spaniard. Frequently the Spanish initiate the use of tú without announcing it; if you listen carefully you will hear the s added to the verb. The familiar form corresponding to ustedes is vosotros and the verb generally ends in áis or éis.

usted está

tu estás - "you are"

ustedes están

vosotros estáis - "you (pl.) are."

¿Hace mucho que estáis aquí? (literally, "is it a long time that you are here?")

Tenemos que "we have to."

¿Os gusta España? (literally, "Does Spain please you?)
The answer, Sí, nos gusta mucho.

Nos encanta (literally, "It enchant us") "We love it."

NOTES ON THE CONVERSATION

Photo: jpvgas
cc-by-sa-2.0

Oye, Kathy. Oye means "listen" and it is used to draw someone's attention. It is also used in a conversation to open a new subject.

Está con los abuelos. Literally, "She is with the grandparents." When ownership or possession is clear, Spanish tends to use "the" rather than "his," "her," "your," and so on.

Agente. When talking to a policeman or a traffic agent in Spain you should address him as agente.

Quédese con la vuelta, "keep the change." Spanish gas stations only pump gas, they do not provide any other services unless paid for. The attendant may put water in the radiator or air in the tires for you, but he will expect a tip for the service. Spanish gas stations belong to a government monopoly, the CAMPESA.

Vale. "OK." The word vale is used in Spanish very much like the expression "OK" is used in English. It may mean approval or agreement. As a question ¿vale? means "Is it OK with you?" or "Do you agree?"

The Spanish national currency is the peseta. Spain has metal coins of: and bills of:

0.50	100 pesetas
1 peseta	500 pesetas
2.50 pesetas	1000 pesetas
5 pesetas	5000 pesetas

Photo: jpvargas
cc-by-sa-2.0

A dos o tres manzanas... "at two or three blocks..."

Notice that a ("at a distance of") must be used in Spanish.

¿Me podría arreglar el coche? ("Could you fix the car for me?") podría... is more polite than puede... ("Can you..."). In Spanish el coche, "the car," is used rather than mi coche, "my car."

Le echo un vistazo... This is an idiomatic expression which means: "I will take a look."

Tráigalo. ("Bring it.") Lo, "it," here refers to a noun, el coche, classified as masculine. When the verb is in the command form, lo is attached to the verb.

Taxi drivers in Madrid, when in service within the city limits, charge according to the amount shown on a meter. When a taxi driver is asked to travel beyond the city limits, the fare should be settled before the passenger enters the cab.

When a taxi is available, a sign with the word LIBRE is displayed behind the windshield. At night, an available taxi also has a green light on top.

There will be an extra charge for luggage.

Manolo: Tengo ganas de ir a Segovia.... Qué tiene tu coche?

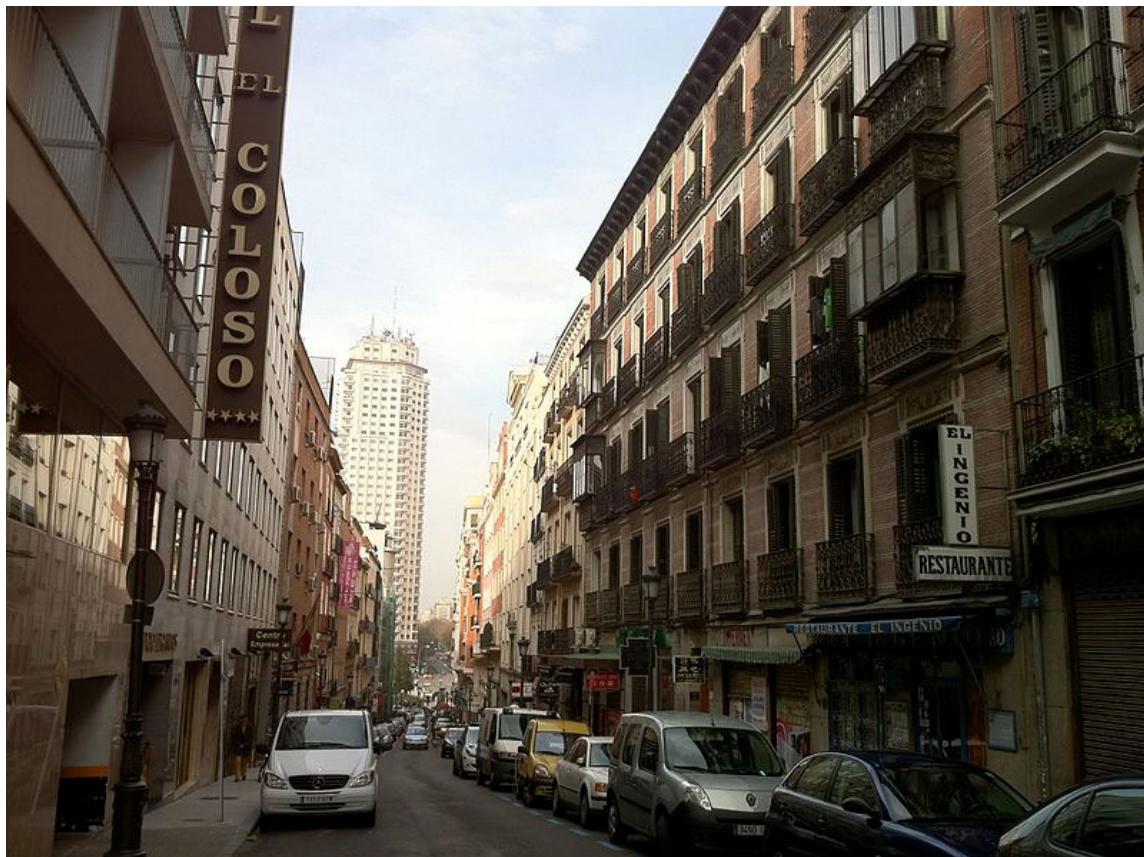

Jack: No sé exactamente. Hay que cambiar las bujías y arreglar el carburador.

Manolo: Para eso sólo necesitas dos o tres horas, no dos días. Lo arreglamos el viernes por la tarde y el sábado por la mañana.... ¡A Segovia!

Jack: A Segovia, eh? ¿Con quién?

Manolo: Bueno.... Con Fabiola y su amiga Paquita.

NOTE: ¿Qué haces? "What are you doing?"
Tengo ganas. "I feel like...." OR "I'm in the mood...."

cc-by-2.0

Merluza (hake) and besugo (sea bream) are usually sold fresh in fish markets. The same is true for shellfish. Frozen fish is available in supermarkets. Merluza is a very popular fish served in restaurants throughout the year.

A novecientas pesetas el kilo, "nine hundred pesetas a kilo."

Algo más, literally "something more."

Nada más, literally "nothing more."

Street markets as well as outdoor food markets can be found in every Spanish city or town. Open once a week, street markets display a large variety of items, among which embroidered linens and pottery are some of the favorites. You may bargain in street markets. Never in stores.

Me la deja. Literally "Leave me it."

Es de Talavera. "[It] is from Talavera." Talavera is the name of a Spanish city famous for its artistic ceramics.

¿No me hace una rebajita? "Won't you make me a small discount?"

Lléveselo. "Take it with you." Se ("to you") is used instead of le when followed by lo, la, or le.

En la barra ... In Spain, a café sells drinks and tapas.

During morning hours, coffee and hot chocolate are served.

There is usually a counter -- la barra -- where customers stand or seat themselves on high stools.

¿Que van a tomar? Literally: "What are you going to take?"

Una caña is literally "a glass." This is used in bars to order a beer.

Un chato is a small glass. This is used to order wine.

Tapas are "hors d'oeuvres," assorted tidbits and appetizers served with beer, wine, or mixed drinks. They are also called pinchitos. A larger portion is called una ración. Some cafés and bars have tapas and raciones menus. A good way of spending an evening is ir de tapeo, or ir de pincheo. To Americans "tapa hopping" is going from bar to bar trying their special tapas with a drink.

Chorizo is a semi-dry, spicy sausage with a characteristically bright red color.

Boquerones are small pickled or fried fish.

Póngame ..., "put on here," is said when one, sitting at a counter, orders some tapas and / or drinks. Traigame ..., "bring me," is used when a person orders from a table.

Chipirones are squid. They are small fried or cooked squid with a sauce and served as hors d'oeuvres.

¿Te gustan los chipirones? "Do you like squid?" Notice that in Spanish you must use los ("the").
